CITY COUNCIL MEETS.

The Outlook Favorable for progressive movement—Something to be done.

The City Council, elected last November, met in their regular meeting place, the News office, last Thursday night for the purpose of organizing and outlining a course of business for the year. W. W. Bradshaw was elected chairman, in other words, he is the Mayor, and plainly speaking, no mistake has been made. The Council did not complete its work, as a town marshal and tax collector were not agreed upon, so it adjourned to meet next Thursday night for this and other purposes. The various needs of the town were discussed, and the best methods will be employed to cure the defects and bring about such other improvements as the Council believe to be in the best interest of a progressive community. The subject of better and more sidewalks will be taken up and the same will go hand in hand with the walks. The Council will investigate the cost of a rock crusher at an early day, and it is highly probable that one will be purchased. The town will be better lighted before the Summer comes or the Spring disappears, but one thing certain, wherever a dollar is spent, visible results will appear. The Council is not only progressive, but safe on every proposition. It starts in business with no indebtedness, the streets in fair good condition, and $46,635 in cash to its credit. We believe that the ball will be kept rolling and that the present council will measure up to the necessities of Columbia.

In speaking of the present board we feel that justice demands a favorable mention of the Council that preceded it. As we understand it, that board went into business with a debt over the town, and during its term not only wiped out the indebtedness, but kept up the streets and made some other improvements, secured an electric light plant, paid all cost for such fixtures and lights up to January 1st, and turned over to its successor $346,55.

Gentlemen of the old board, the News acknowledges your worth to the town, and our hearty appreciation of your impartial, painstaking and progressive efforts.

PROMINENT YOUNG PEOPLE WED.

Mr. Sam R. Wheat and Miss Zilpha Dunbar Take the Vows of Wedded Life.

Last Thursday evening, Mr. Sam R. Wheat and Miss Zilpha Dunbar pledged allegiance to the solemn rite of matrimony at the residence of Eld. Z. T. Williams, he being the officiating clergyman. This marriage is the culmination of a long and happy courtship, and has been expected by their many intimate friends for quite a while. No invitations were issued, and no invited friends present, both of the contracting parties desiring a quiet wedding. Mr. Wheat is one of Adair counties most progressive and prosperous young men—a man who stands as a true gentleman, upright and honest in every particular, and whose energy and ability make him a desirable citizen in any country.

The bride is the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Dunbar, well educated, and possessing a charming and lovable disposition, so essential to happiness, and indispensable in the crowning joys of wedded life. She is popular in society and enjoys the true friendship of as many young people as any lady in this entire country. They will reside on Mr. Wheat's landed estate at Montpelier, one of the best communities in our county. The news extends the usual compliments.

NEW WAGONS FOR THE TRADE.

Better Accommodations for the Traveling Public.

Mr. J. B. Barbee informs us that he has purchased two new wagons to take the place of the ones he is now using on the line between Columbia and Campbellsville. The new wagons are made of the best material and each has a capacity for 18 on 20 passengers with ample baggage room. They are made for durability and comfort, gather up steep roads and well closed against cold or disagreeable weather. Mr. Barbee expects to have them doing service within ten or fifteen days.

TO EXTEND THE LINE

From Scottsville To Eastern Kentucky Mountains.

L. & N. Sale to Plan New Road For More Direct Route to New York.

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 18.—[Special.]

"It is said here on good authority that the Louisville & Nashville railroad, which recently purchased the Chesapeake and Nashville road, will begin work early next Spring, extending that line from Scottsville, Ky., to a point branch to Norton, Va., probably near Corbin or Jellico, and will use the new line for a more direct connection to New York from the South.

All efforts for an official statement have failed, but it has been intimated here that the line now being built West from Corbin is a part of this line. Since the advent of the Southern Rail road to New York, that road now has the most direct route from this section to New York and also has another Eastern line from the South. To meet the short haul by the Southern and its connections, it is said that the Louisville and Nashville will build this route which will give that road the shortest line from Birmingham and Nashville by more than fifty miles.

In this connection it is also said that the Louisville and Nashville will double track its road from Birmingham to Galatin, Tenn., the terminus of the Chesapeake and Nashville line."

The above is a clipping handed us by Gov. J. R. Hindman, which was taken from a Louisville paper last week. Whether or not the above line would pass through the county, or leave to the North, is unknown, but at any rate it would be an important connective as well as open up a new field for development.

Mr. C. O. Walkup, after about one week's confinement to his room with pneumonia, passed over the silent door of death at his home in Glendale, Saturday at 3 o'clock. For many months Mr. Walkup had been in declining health, but that developed a few days ago which he was unable to stand. He was an unimpaired man, a good invalid.

An insurance agent, who frequents his lodges and fellow has great confidence and love. He was 61 years of age and had been a successful man in business affairs all of life. The body was laid to rest near his home with the usual masonic rites. He leaves two brothers, Mr. K. Walkup of Glendale and Mr. Matthew Walkup of Memphis, Texas.

We published a statement of the condition of the Bank of Columbia, in this issue, which shows a strong healthy condition and which points out this institution as one of the safest in the State. The surplus fund and undivided profits have steadily increased, the former showing $10,000 and the latter only behind it a few hundred dollars. The deposits attest the faith the people have as well as their resources and the loans are sufficient to make all connected with the bank feel good. Read the statement.

DIDN'T KNOW FORMER WIFE

Man Marries Woman Whom He Failed to Recognize as His First Helpmate.

Helena, Mont.—Remarried 29 years after they had been divorced, the man not knowing, when the marriage ceremony was performed, that the woman at his side was his former wife, was the matrimonial experience of a western couple in finding a second homecoming in the West.

The woman, however, knew the secret, but found enjoyment in not revealing it to the man until after he was again her husband.

James Hubbard and Ruth Emery were divorced in 1900 and arrived at man's estate. She was 18. Less than a month before the marriage they had met for the first time at the home of a friend in Quebec. After a brief courtship she set out alone for the states to seek a fortune in the gold fields.

A misunderstanding arose not long after he left. Angry letters passed between them and soon she wrote him it was her wish that their correspondence should be kept entirely private. He was in Chicago when her letter came, but at once left there and traveled farther west. Reheating, the wife hurried to Chicago, but found no trace of her husband.

Two years later she secured a divorce on the grounds of desertion and married Rufus Bereford, a mine owner. He died in New Mexico, leaving several properties in Montana.

The widow came to Helena and re-entered the post office under her old name.

She was a stranger to him. She engaged him to examine her properties.

The friendship thus established led to love. After the ceremony she told him her secret and he declared he was doubly delighted.

THE MONEY ORDER HABIT.

Chicago Postmaster Says People Prefer Government Checks to Bank Drafts.

Chicago.—Chicagoans have acquired the post office money order habit, according to the postmaster. His recent monthly statement shows a remarkable increase in the money order business since he took charge of the office in 1901.

There has been an increase of nearly $3,000,000 a year in the money order business both foreign and domestic, since 1901, and each month shows new gains in that branch of the business. The postmaster said he could explain the growth by the fact that the people of Chicago were using the post office money order system in preference to the banks.

"The people of Chicago are now in a position to appreciate the large amount of business which is transacted over the Chicago post office," said the postmaster. "They are learning the money order habit and the wonderful growth in that branch shows it."

"Within a short time I shall have complete statistics showing the increase since I took my office in 1901. Every branch of the post office business has gained."

The money order business for last month was $11,931,661, which is an increase of $2,730,363, or 21 per cent. over the business for the year previous. There were 559,265 money order transactions in July, and in 1905 there were 622,610, an increase of 72,225, or 13 per cent.

MORRISTOWN'S ELMS DIE.

New Jersey Town's Beautiful Trees Killed. It Is Thought, by Leaking Gas.

Morrison, N. J.—Beautiful old elms trees in many streets in this city are dying. The attractiveness of the town is being seriously affected thereby, and residents in many sections have sent leaves to foresters and government experts for analysis as to the probable cause.

In Elm street, which is one of the fashionable thoroughfares, several fine trees are dead. Entomologist Smith, of the state agricultural station at New Brunswick, says the disease seems to be due to the severe winter of 1903 and 1904, followed by the intense heat last July, which has exhausted the vitality of the trees. But the opinion has been advanced that a leakage in the gas lines running through the streets is responsible. Several years ago a large number of elm trees on South street and Ridgegate avenue died from that cause.

Lightning Struck Money.

During a thunderstorm at Tarrytown, N. Y., lately, Louis De Blasio was sitting on his plaza counting his money, preparatory to a trip to Italy. A terrible lightning bolt nearly killed him, and when he recovered his sight his pocketbook and money were missing. The lightning had struck the pocketbook and burned up the money, and yet De Blasio's hands were not even scorched. There was about $200 in the pocketbook, representing several years' savings.

Liable to Meningitis.

Veterinarian says that, but the general public probably does not, that some animals are liable to meningitis as are human beings. Goats and horses are the principal sufferers in the dumb creation and from them the infection passes to man. The disease is known as "myodromphalus acutus." Of horses affected with the disease 78 per cent die, and the remainder have a chronic tendency to relapse.

Basil Bear Arms in Church.

Summer girls from Chicago and elsewhere received a jolt at the nine o'clock mass at St. Basil's Catholic church, Port Huron, Mich., when Rev. John O'Rafferty, from the pulpit warned them to attend Divine service with their sleeves rolled up to display coats of mail. The dress is made with short sleeves, it's all right," said Father O'Rafferty, "but I wish to caution young ladies not to come here with the long sleeves the way we see them riding up on their arms. Roll them down. Rolled-up sleeves are not appropriate respect for the house of God."

Don't Eat in Candy.

A Kansas man traveling in Italy said that the Italians are more honest in one respect than Americans. He has lost his umbrella in public places several times and it has always been returned to him.

MAGISTRATE AS PALMIST.

Reads Lines in Prisoner's Hand, Tells His Future and Lets Him Go.

Utica.—With all the assurance of a palmetto of long practice City Magistrate O'Connor the other afternoon read the lines on the right hand of a vagrant who had been brought before him for sentence.

"Let's see your hand," said the judge, not an uncommon command for Judge O'Connor, who often determines by the culaines on a prisoner's hands the kind of work he is used to.

The prisoner lifted his right hand over the desk and the judge began to read.

"I see something there besides dirt," said the judge.

"Sure, culaines," said the prisoner, who had evidently been against the decree of the court, and set out alone for the state to seek a fortune.

"No, not culaines," returned the judge. "I see your future. Are you married?"

"Nope," said the prisoner.

"Well, then, you're going to be, because the line of union crosses very plainly."

"The line of success is imprinted very clearly across the hand," said the judge. "You will have to wash your hand before I can read any more. I'm going to let you go, because I'm quite sure you're going to be married; the union line says so, but I don't think you'll take up space in your pocket."

"I'm not married," said the prisoner.

"I see your future. Are you married?"

"Nope," said the prisoner.

"Get out of here. I've been in box cars myself in days ago and have a fellow feeling for your kind," said the magistrate, as he crossed Flynn's palm with silver and discharged him.

"I never like to let two persons from Cohoes go on the same day," said the judge. "Troy has the worst Irishmen in the country, and in Cohoes the Irish are just two degrees better. Where you are you're arrested."

"In a box car," was the reply.

"Get out of here. I've been in box cars myself in days ago and have a fellow feeling for your kind," said the magistrate, as he crossed Flynn's palm with silver and discharged him.

MANY MILLIONS FOR WATER

California City to Bring Its Supply a Distance of 240 Miles

by Gravity.

Los Angeles, Cal.—In an effort to obtain an unlimited supply of pure water for all future needs, Los Angeles is about to begin work on a system which from an engineering standpoint will be of greater magnitude than any similar project ever undertaken. The only system which approaches it is the Croton water supply of New York, but difficulties will be encountered such as do not exist in New York.

The scheme is to bring mountain water from the Colorado River, in the Inyo county, across deserts, through mountains and across plains, a distance of 240 miles, and give Los Angeles a supply sufficient when the population reaches the million mark.

Engineers have estimated that the cost of the project will be $23,000,000. City officials have secured options on Owens lake and a part of the river draining it. They have made a survey of the line and induced the national government to abandon the project in mind over the lake center.

The survey showed that all water may be conveyed by gravity. Nearly 30 miles of tunnels will be necessary.

THINKS PEARY IS DOOMED.

Maine Sailor Who Started with Explorer Deserts in Consequence.

South Paris, Me.—Because he does not think that Lieut. Peary's arctic steamer, the Roosevelt, will come back to civilization, a Maine sailor has given up hope of ever again hearing from his wife, Stephen Morse, who shipped on the vessel before it left New York, has deserted and returned to his home in Maine.

Morse is one of the best seafaring men that ever shipped before a mast, and has never been frightened by any seas he has encountered. After sailing in the Roosevelt, C. B., he was not enthusiastic about continuing the trip.

Obituary.

On Saturday night Dec. 16th, 1905, Mrs. Julia T. Bardin passed over the silent river of death. For eight years she had been confined to her room with rheumatism. She was born February 10th, 1849, making her 56 years, 10 months and six day old at her death; was married to Gabriel J. Bardin November 27th, 1865, professed religion in the year '67 and lived a true and faithful Christian life. She was asked if she was ready to meet Jesus and she said, Yes. She tried to talk to the children before she died but she didn't have strength. One night in her great suffering she told her daughters that she would rather see the light of another world than to see the light of another day. Her funeral was preached at Concord church by her pastor, Rev. T. J. Campbell. Her remains were laid to rest in the family burying ground near Antioch church. While we, in company with her sorrowing friends and stricken family, drop a tear to her memory yet we sorrow not as those that have no hope. She leaves 7 children, one sister and several grand children to mourn their loss. Broken hearted sorrowing children hear God's promise pure and blest come to me ye heavy laden, I will give you rest; cast your cares on loving Jesus until life's hard toils are done, sweetly then come to glory, home, sweet home that you have won. Then peaceful be her silent slumbers peaceful in the grave so low she no more will join our number she no more our tears shall no, let us ever hope to meet her when the cares of life have fled where there's joy and peace and gladness, where no farewell tears are shed.

A FRIEND.

EDUCATIONAL.THE FIGHT

The officers and members of the Executive Committee of the Educational Improvement Commission of Kentucky held an important meeting at the Capitol Hotel in Frankfort Saturday, December 16th. The meeting lasted all day, and a definite plan of campaign was determined upon.

Among other things which form part of the plans of the Commission, is an effort to determine as far as possible the will of the leading citizens of the state in regard to the State Normal School proposition. To this end the Commission has mailed out 8,000 blank petitions to the 8,000 white school teachers asking that the people be interviewed. Over 7,000 of the 8,000 teachers have already placed themselves on record many times heretofore in the matter.

The attitude of the press is especially gratifying. Out of a lengthy list of editorials last week there was only one that was not heatedly in favor of State Normals.

There was an article in a country paper last week by one who signed his name "An Ex-Teacher" that gave vent to the following thought. He said: "Give a prospective teacher a thorough training in an up-to-date State Normal School and then send him out to teach in the average country district and he will become disgusted with conditions, environments, and salary, and abandon the work at the end of the first six months experience."

Here is where the "Ex-Teacher" is clearly in error. The trained teacher knows how to do "Common things uncommonly well", and hence his work is a constant delight and fascination. He knows when conditions are wrong, and he has the knowledge, training and heart-power to set to work and right them.

It is one of the greatest functions of education to make the poor discontented with their poverty and to fire them with a zeal and determination to better their lot in life. It is possibly the greatest function of a State Normal School to give such training to its student teachers, and to fill them to overflowing with an inspiration that will enable them to meet the adverse conditions in the country and transform them. It was State Supt. O. B. Martin, of South Carolina, who said: "One intelligent, live and enthusiastic teacher can revolutionize a whole township, and build a monument that will endure." Such a teacher will make conditions; he will create environments; he will command a salary. In the wake of intelligent efforts will follow good school houses, splendid equipment, beautiful school grounds, local taxation, longer terms, larger salaries, and a more healthful public sentiment in favor of better education and a higher citizenship. Such a teacher will practically solve the problem of compulsory education. He will draw the children to him, and secure the cooperation of the patrons.

Again this "Ex-Teacher" seems to infer that the child in the country district is not entitled to a thoroughly trained teacher. Why not? There is no reason why man should not supply there in heart of nature, schools that shall offer as good educational facilities as are to be found in town or city. With such schools, the country would be an ideal place for the education of men and women. Without such schools, it is but a question of time when the best blood of the country will move to the towns and cities and leave in our rural districts only the poorest peasant population, too ignorant to know the value and the blessing of an education, and too indifferent to care to secure it for their offspring.

Now is the time for all thoughtful people to meditate solemnly and earnestly. The Legislature will be in session next winter. Are you content to know that Kentucky drags behind all the others States and Territories in this matter? Are you willing to longer deny to the country boys and girls the privilege of a trained teacher? Are you satisfied to know that hundreds of thousands of good, honest country folks are unfavorably inclined toward education for the simple reason that they have never had a trained leader, but in place thereof, have generally had unskilled teachers and miserably poor schools? Do you not believe it is a part of patriotism to change these conditions? If you do, then it is your duty to be up and doing, write to your Senator and your Representative, and tell them of your convictions. They will gladly give your opinion consideration. This is a government "of the people, for the people, and by the people." Then the people should express themselves to the Law-makers.

LITTLE GOD WORKS HAVOC IN SOLDIERS' HOME.

Enough Courtships There to Keep Up
Already Established Married Record
Among Aged Defenders of the Nation.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Cupid in his most artful garb is at work among the aged veterans in the soldiers' home at Lafayette. In the last year seven or eight marriages have taken place at the home, and it is said there are enough courtships in progress to promise many more matrimonial alliances next year.

"I could tell you we'll have to find a way to head off the little god," declared R. M. Smock, commander of the home, at G. A. R. headquarters.

The total population of the home is 1,002. Of this number 495 are women—the record of widows of soldiers. The commander says the mortality rate at the home seems to be increasing. Included in the population are seven or eight Spanish-American war veterans, mostly young men. Said the commander:

"Four per cent of deaths is very much greater among the Spanish war soldiers than among the veterans of the civil war. The experience in tropical countries in which many of them had to serve seems to have lowered their vitality and death rate. The men sent out in the Spanish-American war were not nearly so well able to stand hardship as those who went out in 1862."

Commander Smock spoke of many old couples in the home who seem perfectly happy and content with their work and are furnished with plenty of clothing and food. The commander is inclined to encourage matrimony at the home. He says that among all the marriages that have taken place there since he has been in control only one has resulted unhappy. After a long marriage the unmated pair left the home together. The husband has returned, however, and has sued his wife for divorce. The husband was formerly a member of the Indianapolis police force.

MONARCHS LOSE PRESENTS

Gifts Shah Was to Have Sent Them
Now Repose in Pawnshop—All
Won't Take Them Back.

Venice—President Roosevelt, the Kaiser and a king or two have been robbed of the gifts of the Christmas presents which the shah of Persia intended to give them. Each potentate was to have a diamond-encrusted miniature portrait of himself, and Alfonso, the Persian jeweler in this city, was commanded to do the work in true oriental style.

All had finished the portraits of Mr. Roosevelt, President Franch, Joseph and Kaiser. William, but the shah was obliged to go to Paris for more diamonds, and turned the finished portraits over to another Persian, Madam Baga, for safe keeping.

When he found a nice set of diamonds and a few ornaments, he pawned the portraits the day he received them and immediately set out for Paris. He was subsequently arrested and held only a few hours in his possession.

Shah has refused to take the portraits out of pawn, and all declare he would ruin him to do so.

DECAPITATED AGED SNAKE.

New York State Woman Pins Reptile to Earth and Uses Pocket-Knife.

Bath, N. Y.—A large rattlesnake is on exhibition in this village which was killed by the wife of Marcellus Rice, a man who has taught the art of hunting on Mount Washington, in a region noted for rattlesnakes. Instead of killing the snake with a stick, she adopted the novel method of decapitating it with a pocketknife.

Her son John was engaged in picking berries in the woods when he heard a strange noise, and told his mother. She accompanied her son back to the place, where she recognized in the sound the rattle of the snake. She secured a forked stick with which she began to beat the ground, and was rewarded by the sight of the snake. While the snake was yet uncoupled and before it could prepare for a second attack she jammed the forked stick over its head. The snake then impaled itself upon the wooden implement, coiling its body about the stick.

However, she was clear nerve. She searched with her other hand in her apron pocket until she found a pocket-knife, and she handed to her son and told him to open its largest blade. He did so, and she cut off the head of the snake. The snake measured 30 inches in length and had nine rattles.

ROMANCE IN HUNGARY.

Young Nobleman in Love with Poor
Girl Finds Himself in Prison.

Berlin.—A romantic story, with all the details of a medieval tale—imprisonment in a tower, opposition of old-line parents, rescue and abduction, culminating in marriage, comes from Gosewintern, in Hungary.

In olden days the maiden was imprisoned in a tower, and a young nobleman, madly in love with a poor girl, who finds himself in prison.

The parents of the nobleman did everything to break the engagement, but without avail. The preparations for the marriage were in progress when the young man disappeared. Under the pretense of viewing some repairs on one of the family estates he was lured into the tower of the building and imprisoned. His room was curiously furnished, and the shah of Persia intended to give them. Each potentate was to have a diamond-encrusted miniature portrait of himself, and Alfonso, the Persian jeweler in this city, was commanded to do the work in true oriental style.

All had finished the portraits of Mr. Roosevelt, President Franch, Joseph and Kaiser. William, but the shah was obliged to go to Paris for more diamonds, and turned the finished portraits over to another Persian, Madam Baga, for safe keeping.

KILLS MAN FOR "AD."

AUTHOR GAINS "FAME" FOR NEWLY-WRITTEN BOOK.

London Man Seeking to Call Public
Attention to His Work on Yellow Peril—Says Aged New Zealand Chinaman.

London.—Edward Lionel Terry thought he was a man with a mission and ought to make a name for himself. He could not bear the idea of settling down in the real estate and mortgaging his soul to the bank, his father in London. He was descended from an illegitimate son of Napoleon, and was educated at Oxford and Eton. Lionel, at 21, six feet tall, with the proportions of a blacksmith, enlisted in the private life line regiment, with his father's brother-in-law. He was afterwards transferred to the Blues. Magnetic and easy in address, he was liked by both officers and men.

In defiance of the rules of the service, he at once covered the walls of his room with the names of the officers banks with caricatures of the officers. The men of the regiment who were so tickled by a caricature of himself that he cut out the plaster on which it appeared, framed it and pleaded for mitigation of the culprit's sentence.

After 15 years of soldiering, he was released through the intervention of his father, but could not remain long in London. Off he went to South Africa, enlisted in the mounted police and served through the Matabele war, taking part in 15 engagements. He was twice wounded and received the rank of the great commandant, Col. Rhodes. He returned to London and a tall hat but two years of this he could not endure. The "war-liner" seized him again. It was in British Columbia that he became convinced that the Chinese were not the bad people they were made out to be, during the white wage earner, and that it was his mission to check the "yellow peril." From Canada he went to Australia, earning his bread by mining and farming. Then he came to New Zealand's shores. Here he came in contact with the book, God's Word, wherein he attempted to convince New Zealanders that the Chinese were undermining their prosperity. He was then 31 years old.

"I am going to make a name for myself," he wrote to his father, "but I will not let you know connected with me, for it may harm you." One day recently Terry, while walking in the streets of Wellington, New Zealand, came upon Kuma Young, a feeble, tottering old Chinaman. Life seemed a burden to the aged man, but Terry, with a smile, offered him a chance to live.

"I would shoot down the dog if I had a gun," he said.

After his death of blood, Lionel coolly walked to police headquarters and surrendered. A murder charge was placed against him. Then he wrote to God's Word.

"Sir: Having spent several years in various portions of the British empire inquiring into alien immigration, and being convinced of the evil consequences arising therfrom, I have decided to bring the matter to the attention of the little children of the South from the fearful consequences of too early toil.

In the name of Him who was born a little child, and who loved the little children, this appeal is made at this sacred season for this sacred cause. In the happiness of your own children, think of the little workers at the loom and among the spindles.

$25,000 FOR WEDDING GIFT

Detail of Marriage of Son of Rock Island Magnate Disclosed
by a Check.

New York.—Frequent mention has been made of some of the presents given to the son of the Rock Island magnate.

Mr. Edward Moore, of Chicago, and Miss Fargo in New York, but there was one that has escaped notice. That was a check for $250,000 given to the young bridegroom by his father, James Hart Moore, one of the "Big Four" in the Rock Island road and prominent members of industrial consolidation.

This is the second big check

Mr. Moore has given his son with a comparatively short time.

When the young man attained his majority last year, his father gave him a check for $100,000.

When he left the first check, added to the quarter of a million he received as a wedding gift, ought to make a tidy sum which to start light housekeeping.

IN BEHALF OF CHILDHOOD.

In the Southern States there are 60,000 children, from six to sixteen years of age, working in the cotton mills alone. They have little holiday, even at this season, and the working day is twelve hours in most of the states. Many of these little ones must work at night.

The National Child Labor Committee, organized a little over a year ago, in securing laws for the better protection of the toiling children in twelve of the states. Our Southern States are behind the others in this humane legislation. Some of them have no laws at all, and no enforcement of the laws they have.

In the meantime the very strength and vigor of our pure Anglo-Saxon stock is being sap-ped by this system of working of their helplessness to be delivered from this slavery.

The National Committee, on which there are twelve prominent Southern men, has established a Southern office in Atlanta with a Southern man in charge. Funds are needed for the legitimate expenses of the legislative campaigns now in progress. Every dollar given by Southerners will be expended to protect the little children of the South from the fearful consequences of too early toil.

In the name of Him who was born a little child, and who loved the little children, this appeal is made at this sacred season for this sacred cause. In the happiness of your own children, think of the little workers at the loom and among the spindles.

Contributions may be sent to National Child Labor Committee, Room 604, Century Building, Atlanta, Ga. In behalf of children. In the name of the Christ Child. A. J. Mc'KELWAY, Secretary.

Steals an Automobile and Searches
Through New York's Busiest
Streets—Is Caught.

New York.—Tomasso Russo, 15 years old, a bootblack, has for some time had great desire to operate an automobile. As a result he finds himself in the lockup. At the same time a big repair bill on a red touring car will have to be met by its owner, Charles Seitz, dentist, who is unable to pay it.

Tomasso knew he could run a machine, and when he saw Mr. Seitz jump out of his seat in front of the Hotel Navarro, he gathered near to feast his eyes. Mr. Seitz entered the hotel. That was the last he saw of his machine. It was a black sedan, with two bent axles, on the sidewalk before of Broadway, near Ninety-ninth street.

Feasting his eyes failed to satisfy Tomasso. He jumped into the car on a lever or two. The machine started and the boy, who was "abashed" on the house as he drove up the avenue at a pace forbidden by law. At Forty-second street he turned east, past the Metropole hotel, nearly taking down a lampost on the corner, and then, without slowing up, he dashed down Broadway, right and left. Luckily the road happened to be comparatively free of vehicles at the time, for the raft of the machine left only a red blur.

At Thirty-ninth street Patrolman John Smith ran after the boy, but a grin was the only smile he got. The boy grimed his feet, his hand on the steering apparatus and ran on the sidewalk into a crowd of pedestrians. The latter scattered like chaff, while the machine dashed down the sidewalk, crashing to a standstill suddenly stop as the boy jumped and ran, but was caught.

When once the tough skin of the brutes is broken so that the blood comes the other dogfish will scent the carion from an incredible distance and hurry to the scene.

Near Trout's Neck, at the east corner of the beach, the school was seen a day later from a coasting schooner. They were chasing an immense drove of small blackened, young cod and porches, which were swimming in the water in every direction in vain endeavor to escape the implacable enemy.

There was some generalship about the attack. The fish were headed into a little bay, with rocks at each of its points. The school of dogfish were in a compact formation, forcing their way out of all retreat in the shallow water. The food fish quite realized their hard fortune, and many tossed themselves against the rocks or on to the shore to escape the teeth of their pursuers. The flanking of the gleaming beasts as the perfect execution of a battle plan, given to the mouth under the piglike snout was incessant, and like short sticks the back fins stood above water almost as far as one could see.

No one who has not seen them would believe that the school of dogfish, schools of dogfish, or mackerel sharks, as some of the coast fishermen call them, the fishermen say that until a few years ago a pack of 50 would be a large body. Now they travel in thousands, perhaps tens of thousands.

A regale from the Vermont "pie belt," where they have pie three times a day, conceived the idea of a porous pie plate which would absorb the fatty substances of the pie when the pie was baked. He experiments with various substances and finally hit on wood pulp, which can be worked up into pie plates with ease and accuracy. He rolled out a pie plate of wood-pulp, let it harden and baked a pie in it. The result—no fatty undercoat, no indigestion, and complete tannin from barn on the most unadulterated diet.

He took his scheme to the big pulp makers at Shawmut, and a pie plate factory was established there which is turning out sheets of "non-indigestion pie plates" to an important market.

Marysville, Cal.—The most radical and picturesque of all California democrats is dead here. In the eighteenth year of his life he made a vow never to shave, for a quarter of a century. He has now kept it, having shaved only once since he made it, and he has not even combed his hair since he made it. He would again secure the governmental reins. And so it was that during all the years between Lincoln and Grover Cleveland Hayes carried his comb under his coat or grasped it in the middle as he lay horizontally in his bed, and never came in contact with the barbers shears.

He was on the old school of gamblers, and, like all his class, had a large amount of personal pride. On the election of Cleveland Hayes, of his republican admirers made a gift of a purse and presented him with a gold-headed cane in recognition of his steadfastness in the keeping of his vow.

Blasts Rout Sitting Hen.

Farmers along the main line of the Pennsylvania railroad near West Conshohocken, Pa., have a most unusual complaint. They will probably not bring suit against the company, however, as they claim their hens will not sit, and that the company is to blame. The building of the new low grade freight line is causing all the trouble. A large number of the birds have been shot, and the farmers claim the hens will not sit, and that the company is to blame. Wild Dogs Hunt in Park.
Lettuce dogs, at large on Sharp mountain, in Penna., have been reduced in some of the canines, according to their original wild state. A pack dogs as fierce as wolves chased a cow belonging to Dalmatian Kuhl, of York farm, into a swamp and tore her body to shreds from her head and body. The cow had been just in time to have her life. The dogs associations have decided to hunt down the wild dogs, as they are killing off the little chickens along the main line this

DESTROY FOOD FISH.

DOGFISH DRIVING MAINE TRAWLERS OUT OF BUSINESS.

Implacable Enemy of the Mackerel, Cod and Other Fishes Is Growing Numerous on the Coast.

Old Orchard, Me.—The hotels here have been driven to the conclusion that there is enough of fresh fish will have to come from a distance to sustain the schooners which used to circuit about the bay do not seek the mackerel and porches.

Some visitors saw the cause of the trouble a few days ago in Casco Bay. He jumped into the sea on a lever or two. The machine started and the boy, who was "abashed" on the house as he drove up the avenue at a pace forbidden by law. At Forty-second street he turned east, past the Metropole hotel, nearly taking down a lampost on the corner, and then, without slowing up, he dashed down Broadway, right and left. Luckily the road happened to be comparatively free of vehicles at the time, for the raft of the machine left only a red blur.

At Thirty-ninth street Patrolman John Smith ran after the boy, but a grin was the only smile he got. The boy grimed his feet, his hand on the steering apparatus and ran on the sidewalk into a crowd of pedestrians. The latter scattered like chaff, while the machine dashed down the sidewalk, crashing to a standstill suddenly stop as the boy jumped and ran, but was caught.

When once the tough skin of the brutes is broken so that the blood comes the other dogfish will scent the carion from an incredible distance and hurry to the scene.

Near Trout's Neck, at the east corner of the beach, the school was seen a day later from a coasting schooner. They were chasing an immense drove of small blackened, young cod and porches, which were swimming in the water in every direction in vain endeavor to escape the implacable enemy.

There was some generalship about the attack. The fish were headed into a little bay, with rocks at each of its points. The school of dogfish were in a compact formation, forcing their way out of all retreat in the shallow water. The food fish quite realized their hard fortune, and many tossed themselves against the rocks or on to the shore to escape the teeth of their pursuers. The flanking of the gleaming beasts as the perfect execution of a battle plan, given to the mouth under the piglike snout was incessant, and like short sticks the back fins stood above water almost as far as one could see.

No one who has not seen them would believe that the school of dogfish, schools of dogfish, or mackerel sharks, as some of the coast fishermen call them, the fishermen say that until a few years ago a pack of 50 would be a large body. Now they travel in thousands, perhaps tens of thousands.

AUGUST SNOW IN NEW YORK

Steam Was Called For at the Top of One of the City's Sky-scrapers.

New York.—The man on the top floor called through the speaking tube to the janitor: "It's snowing up here," said he, "turn on the steam heat."

"You're a liar," was the prompt response, as the janitor in the basement, 22 floors down, turned away from the window with a scowl of bewilderment about being waked up for nothing.

But the man on the thirty-third floor of the skyscraper was right, just the same, although the time was the other day, and the place New York. The weather man who spoke yesterday of the weather man who spoke yesterday if you will ask him. There wasn't much of it, and it melted long before it reached the sidewalk. In fact, it didn't approach nearer than 300 feet of the surface.

Those who have professed to believe that it would snow again the next day, when they woke up the following morning. There was a decided chill in the air, but nothing in the way of snowflakes came down. Why they did so the day before is a mystery, as the temperature on the streets was never lower than 75, and snow can't fall at that degree of torridity.

Pigs Have Crbbing Habit.

The farmers in and about Mountainville, near Califton, N. J., are amazed over the action of one William Sutton's young pigs. The porker acts like a dog, and when he is crbbing, hangs over the kennel and the tail is curled around the neck.

"In all my life I never saw a pig do any other animal, except a dog, do crbbing stunts," said a farmer who spent two hours watching the animal's movements the other day. The pig had not done any real trick, though with its teeth and nose, and was similar to that made by a wind sucking horse.

LIMIT TO SUN'S LIFE.

ASTRONOMER SAYS GREAT ORB GROWS SMALLER.

Old Sol Still Has 24,000,000 Years to Exist, However—English Scientist Declares Tremendous Force Is at Work.

London.—The prodigality with which the sun dispenses heat and the possibilities which arise from this prodigality have formed the subject of an address delivered by the great astronomer, Sir Robert Ball, the other night.

He could not escape from the operation of the law of gravitation, which, it gave out heat the sun's body must get smaller. What the sun would become in the future he could not say, but if one could go to the sun with a measure he would find that it had shrunk 16 inches in diameter.

Two million years ago the sun was nearly a million times larger than at present, and the simple principle that a red-hot poker is a trifle larger than white cold must also apply to the sun.

Two million years ago the sun was nearly a million times larger than at present, and the simple principle that a red-hot poker is a trifle larger than white cold must also apply to the sun.

It is a scientific truth, the lecturer declared, that the sun's supply of heat would not give the sun's heat for more than the ten thousandth part of a single moment of time.

This prodigality of heat cannot be kept up by combustion; there must be some other source of energy. That source, however, is not which is a clearer and more definite source, which gives proof how the sun's heat is kept up.

The sun, it was said, by the mere fact of attraction of its particles, gives us as much heat as it receives from burning 8,000,000 globes of coal. When this prodigality is worked out, and it is remembered that it is not only to the earth that the sun gives heat, it shows that for 24,000,000 years the sun might be kept going for 24,000,000 years.

Ship Captain Reports Whale, Nature Which Makes Him Champion.

New York.—Capt. von Leisic, of the steamer Gracia, writes to a friend from the West Indies that his ship was out to port, which she left J. steaming south, the whale having been captured.

"Forty feet long," he said, "it floated by the stern, and the crew were able to get it ashore."

The command came to make a harpoon, a silver from stem to stern, which struck the whale, and the crew were able to get it ashore.
